

Windesheim University of Applied Sciences chooses Unit4 ERPx for optimal data use

Windesheim University of Applied Sciences has chosen the Unit4 ERPx SaaS solution after a tender process. Windesheim's previous solution had become outdated and no longer fulfilled its requirements. In the search for a new ERP solution, it was important that it had integrated functionalities for finance, projects, and procurement and that it could deliver agile information. ERPx Core, Project, and Procurement from Unit4 came out on top after a tender process.

Better project insights and ready for future policies

ERPx will help Windesheim University of Applied Sciences, which has some 27,500 students and 2,750 employees, to move forward in a number of areas. For example, ERPx helps to gain better insight into multi-year projects, allowing adjustments and optimization to take place earlier. With ERPx, Windesheim also leverages an agile system, enabling the educational institution to adapt to market developments and stay prepared for future policies.

Track record in the education sector

During the European tender process, Unit4 stood out thanks to its proven track record in the education sector. In addition, ERPx met Windesheim's requirements for a modern SaaS solution, and the university was impressed by the flexibility ERPx offers. Lastly, the demo painted a clear picture of what the software can do and what the university can expect after implementation. Fulfillment of the requirements, as well as the demo, were key components in winning the bid.

Wilfried Teunissen, Sales Manager at Unit4, on winning this tender:

"We are extremely pleased that we can implement ERPx at Windesheim University of Applied Sciences in the coming years, and we are convinced that the software is going to deliver great value. Our knowledge and expertise in the education sector helped show that we are the right partner for this project. Our first contact with Windesheim was in 2021, and we look forward to collaborating to streamline, integrate, and optimize the accessibility of information. This tender means that we will become an even more important player in the Dutch higher education market, and I am extremely proud of the team for this achievement!"
